Hiring Manager, BOUNCE, Melbourne VIC

Dear Hiring Manager,

I am applying for the Commercial & Procurement Analyst role at BOUNCE. I do this work every day: I'm an analyst at a procurement analytics consultancy, where supplier, spend, pricing and tender analysis is the core of the business and my clients are enterprise procurement and finance teams. A commercial role that sits in Finance but works closely with suppliers and operators across a growing venue network is a natural fit for how I already work.

The clearest proof is a pricing and margin engagement I ran end to end as the sole analyst for a restaurant chain across Australia and New Zealand. I built a product catalogue of around 3,000 items, a dashboard tracking category-level price movement so the procurement team could negotiate better supplier deals, and a second flagging cheaper substitute products, and presented directly to the Chief Procurement Officer and category managers. Over a year it helped the client capture around 30 percent, roughly A$2 million, in savings in their largest category. For the same client I evaluated supplier tenders for chicken and spirits, comparing bids like-for-like so they could award the right supplier.

Alongside that I structured roughly A$12 billion of a client's annual spend into categories to support supplier evaluation. For a fresh-produce client I forecast raw-material inventory three months ahead within a 12 to 14 percent error margin, built a bill of materials, automated stock reports with par-level reorder alerts, and evaluated their fruit and packaging tenders, which maps closely to what BOUNCE needs: knowing what to order, from whom, and when. I also built Facit, a profitability tool for independent cafes that turns POS, wages and supplier invoices into a weekly read on food cost percentage, gross margin and supplier price movement, so I understand F&B margins from the operator side too.

BOUNCE is an entertainment business where food and beverage is becoming a real commercial lever, not an afterthought, and that is work I want to do more of. I would welcome the chance to talk it through. You can reach me at dhruvnirmal2111@gmail.com or +61 406 259 619.

Yours sincerely,

Dhruv Nirmal
